Cevo Announces Steve Mactaggart as new State Manager for Victoria

Technology consultancy Cevo are excited to announce Steve Mactaggart's move into the role of State Manager for Victoria.

A long-standing member of the Cevo Leadership Team, Steve brings a wealth of experience and expertise into the role, both from the business' strategic development, as well as technology thought leader and advocate. Steve will be supported by the rest of the Leadership Team (pictured - missing Ebony Worth) in helping shape the future direction of the organisation.

“I’m excited and humbled to take the opportunity to lead Cevo through it’s next chapter” said Steve. “We’ve delivered some awesome outcomes for our clients over the first four years, and I’m really excited to build upon that platform as we move forward. Cevo’s strength has always been aligned to technical delivery, focused on driving DevOps cultural change through automation and delivery optimisations.

We see a direction that looks across the broader landscape of cloud adoption, not only assisting customers to use the cloud better, but also helping them get into the cloud in the best way to meet their organisation’s needs. This will continue to be our focus as we double down on building a team that is aligned to helping our customers exploit the benefits of cloud computing.”

The move to State Manager follows the recent departure of Managing Partner (Vic), Hannah Browne. Hannah was instrumental in building the brand and success of Cevo since its inception and led its rapid growth into the tech community.

Jamie Potter (Director) said “Hannah has gone off to pursue several other exciting opportunities and we certainly wish her well. She helped set up the business with the rest of the leadership team. The Board is delighted that Steve has been promoted into the State Management role. As an ex AWS Cloud Warrior, Steve has been at the forefront of our senior technical team, and clearly understands the challenges facing our customers. He’s backed by a strong Cevo team, and the growth plans for FY20 and beyond are well underway. Combined with the expansion of the team in NSW, the headcount growth over the next period is accelerating faster than ever. It’s looking like we’ll have our largest revenue ever in May so we’re excited about the road ahead.”

In addition to the changes in the Victorian office, Cevo NSW continues to gain momentum in its first two months, having secured a number of key hires to the team, and kicked off several consulting engagements with Government and enterprise customers.

Cevo aim to redefine consulting and the technology landscape. We do this by disrupting the status quo and focusing on value delivered, enablement and knowledge transfer.

Cevo's reputation in the industry is based on a highly skilled team who deliver with credibility and expertise in cloud engineering and migration, DevOps, automation, software engineering, agile ways of working and infrastructure management. We work with some of Australia's most innovative enterprises, exciting start-ups and mature technology organisations to bring higher quality software and platforms to market faster, by leveraging the cloud and continuous delivery practices.

More than that, we care about people - our own, those we work with, and the wider tech community. What sets us apart is a willingness to share knowledge and enhance technical capabilities within internal technology and delivery teams.
